THE COUNTRY WOMEN'S COUNCIL USA

At the September 2002 Annual Meeting of Country Women's Council USA it was voted to apply for membership as an affiliated society of The Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW). CWC was accepted into membership a few weeks later at the October Council Meeting of ACWW.

The Country Women's Council USA is a coordinating council, composed of Associated Country Women of the World member societies in the USA and meets twice each triennium to promote the work of ACWW.

The Country Women's Council USA became the official name in 1946. Initially, the adopted title in 1939 was the United States Liaison Committee. The Council works actively to promote international understanding through such specific projects as the Rural Women in Action Fund and through its participation in activities of certain specialized agencies in the United States.

In 1952, an observer was named to the United Nations. In 1958, ACWW was granted Category B status with the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) with Mrs. George Roberts as ACWW-UN representative.

By meeting together, the many societies of ACWW in the United States of America have made the Country Women's Council USA, an efficient, cooperative, and understanding body. Thus, CWC has served to strengthen ACWW and, in so doing, has become strong and effective in the promotion of the activities of the mother organization.

Activities

The Country Women's Council USA, does not formulate policy. It may, and often does, offer recommendations and suggestions from member societies to the international office of ACWW. Its programs and activities are devoted to carrying out the policies of ACWW, and to do this, it has the officers previously listed, and their respective duties.

2014 CWC Society members adopt ACWW project #0973 in Mongolia

2016 CWC Society members adopt ACWW project #1007 in India

2017 CWC Society members adopt ACWW project #1023 in India

2018 -2020 CWC Society members adopt Zero Hunger Challenge

2021 CWC adopts Smile Train Project

2024 CWC adopts Addressing Food Waste

- See Projects Adopted by CWC for details.

Rural Women in Action Fund

This activity provides a way for each individual member of societies to take an active part in the work of ACWW. Donations to this fund support all of ACWW's work. CWC urges members to participate in this activity.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE ASSOCIATED COUNTRY WOMEN OF THE WORLD

The earliest organizations of farm women began towards the end of the nineteenth century in widely separated countries of the world - Germany, America and Scandinavia. The first recorded date of an organization of farm women was 1797; the year Finland recognized the Women's Agricultural Organization.

But, it was not until 1929, thanks to Lady Aberdeen, President of the International Council of Women, that country women were beginning to think in worldwide terms.

At Lady Aberdeen's invitation, representatives from rural women's organizations all over the world came together for this first international meeting. Mrs. A. E. Brigden, of the New York Home Bureau attended and was chosen to represent the United States of America on the international committee, which was formed at that time, the Liaison Committee of Rural Women's Organizations.

Mrs. Alfred Watt, Canadian, who had brought the idea of the Women's Institutes from Canada to England, was chosen as the first chairman of this committee. Mrs. Watt had long been interested in forming an international association of country women.

In 1930, the first conference called by the committee was held in Vienna. They met as a Standing Committee of the International Council of Women. At this time, the name became the Liaison Committee of Rural Women's and Homemaker's Organizations. Twenty-eight (28) different countries were represented by thirty-four (34) organizations. Several delegates from the United States of America were present, as well as representatives from the U.S. Extension Service. Mrs. Edward Young, New York Home Bureau; Mrs. W.F. Conant, New England Farm and Garden; and Miss Grace Frysinger, U.S. Extension Service, were members of the committee representing the United States of America.

After three years of intensive activity by the committee in making many new contacts in Holland, Switzerland, and America, the second Triennial was called in Stockholm in 1933. Here an important step was taken. The committee became an independent organization with a constitution, a name, The Associated Country Women of the World, and a president, Mrs. Alfred Watt of Canada.

The third Triennial Conference was held in Washington, DC in 1936, with 7000 U.S. women greeting representatives from other countries. Miss Grace Frysinger was elected as one of the vice-presidents. With the world tour of Mrs. Watt during the next triennium, the activities of the association were spent largely in spreading information about the organization. When the fourth Triennial Conference met in London in 1939, membership had reached a peak with twenty-nine (29) countries being represented by eighty-four (84) national, provincial and state organizations. Mrs. Guy Roop, USA, was elected as one of the vice-presidents at this meeting, and Mrs. Carleton-Smith, USA was named one of the vice-chairmen of the executive committee. But, war, involving the members of all societies, intervened and only through the valiant determination of a few members in London was the ACWW office kept open and the organization held together without a break. It was not until 1947, at the invitation of the Countrywomen's Association of the Netherlands that representatives could come together again for the fifth Triennial Conference in Amsterdam. At this time, Mrs. Watt retired as president and Mrs. Raymond Sayre, USA, was elected as president. Mrs. Carleton-Smith, USA, was elected one of the vice-presidents of the 1947-50 period, and Mrs. Ian MacDonald, USA, was named as one of the chairmen of the Executive Committee.

During the following triennium period, the association was concerned with renewing its ties with member societies, with resuming its activities with member societies and with recouping its finances. ACWW also assumed a new responsibility through its acceptance of consultative status with The Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ESOCOC), as well as FAO and UNESCO.

By 1950, when the Conference met in Copenhagen, the association was on its feet again and ready to face up to its responsibilities in a new and vastly different world than that in which it had begun. The activities of ACWW to extend its membership to new groups were given an important place by making the Extension Committee one of the standing committees of the association.

In 1953, when the Triennial conference was held in Toronto, Canada, India, Egypt, and Japan were represented by observers, and Pakistan and Lebanon had become members. It was long felt that the organization had outgrown its constitution and bylaws, so during the 1953 conference, a committee was established to make a detailed study of the problems and present suggested plans to the delegates prior to the Ceylon Conference. This was known as the Survey Committee with Mrs. Raymond Sayre as chairman. Other committee members were officers of ACWW. The task proved too much to complete in one triennial period so it was carried into the 1959 conference held in Edinburg, Scotland. Here the new constitution and bylaws were adopted, but were not to be activated until three years later when the elections could be held under the new pattern. Mrs. G. van Beekhoff van Selms, of the Netherlands, was elected president and Mrs. J. Homer Remsburg was named area vice-president for the USA in 1959.

At the tenth Triennial Conference, held in Melbourne, Australia, October 1962, the new administrative pattern was instituted. At this time, Mrs. Haven Smith, USA, was chosen as one of the two deputy presidents, and Mrs. R. P. Matchett was elected as area vice-president for the USA.

In 1965, the eleventh Triennial Conference was held in Dublin, Ireland. Mrs. Aroti Dutt of India was elected president and Mrs. Haven Smith and Mrs. R. P. Matchett were re-elected for second terms.

The twelfth Triennial Conference was held in Lansing, Michigan. The membership now stood at six and one-half million members with 270 member societies from all continents. Mrs. Aroti Dutt, India, was re-elected president, and Mrs. Eugene L. Survant, Colorado, was elected USA Area Vice-President in 1968.

The thirteenth Triennial Conference was held in Oslo, Norway, in 1971. Mrs. O.L. Farquharson, England, was elected as president, and Mrs. F.G. Garrison was elected USA Area Vice-President.

The fourteenth Triennial Conference was held in Perth, Australia, in 1974. Mrs. O.S. Farquharson, England, was re-elected as president, and Mrs. Louis Fear was elected USA Area Vice-President.

The fifteenth Triennial Conference was held in Nairobi, Kenya, in 1977. Mrs. Ralph Row, Western Australia, was elected president and Mrs. Gordon White, Mississippi, was elected as USA Area Vice-President.

The sixteenth Triennial Conference was held in Hamburg, Germany, in May of 1980. Mrs. A. Westerbring-Muller, The Netherlands, was elected president. Mrs. Floyd Howard was elected deputy president, and Mrs. Martin Muchow was elected USA Area Vice-President. The title of Member of Honour was conferred on Mrs. George (Eleanor) Roberts, ACWW United Nations Representative in New York.

The seventeenth Triennial Conference was held in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. Dr. Ellen McLean was elected president and Mrs. Jean Ehlinger was elected USA Area Vice-President in June, 1983. Following constitutional Objects and Policy rewording, ACWW was granted charitable status, beginning October 12, 1984. Offices were moved from Warwick Square to Vincent House, Vincent Square, in London, in March 1985. Societies in the USA provided carpet for the new office.

Miss Heather McGrigor, ACWW General Secretary for 14 years, retired in April, 1986, and worked through the eighteenth Triennial Conference held in Killarney, Ireland, in May. A panel interviewed six candidates selected from sixty applicants and the job was offered to Miss Jennifer Pearce, who accepted and commenced work on March 17, 1986. At this eighteenth Triennial Conference in Ireland, Dr. Ellen McLean was re-elected president and Mrs. Betty Buff was elected USA Area President. The General Purposes Committee was replaced by a board consisting of president, two deputy presidents, area presidents, executive Vice-president, honorary secretary, honorary treasurer, standing committee chairmen, to meet annually; and an executive committee consisting of president, two deputy presidents, executive vice-president, honorary secretary, and honorary treasurer to meet twice a year in addition. The board held its inaugural meeting at Vincent House in September, 1986.

The nineteenth Triennial Conference was held in Kansas City, Missouri, in September, 1989. The office of executive vice-president was deleted. The 20 percent total voting power of conference was changed to 30 percent. A recommendation passed that an ACWW Day be held worldwide on April 29th or during the last week in April each year to promote and publicize ACWW. Mrs. Valerie Fisher of Australia was elected president; Mrs. Jean Ehlinger of the USA was elected deputy president; and Mrs. Shirley Woody was elected as USA Area President.

The twentieth Triennial Conference was held in The Hague, The Netherlands, in June 1992. A revised constitution and bylaws was accepted which eliminated conference percentage of voting power; initiated membership categories I, II, III, and IV; and deleted further sale of Life Memberships. Mrs. Valerie Fisher, Australia, was re-elected president, and Mrs. Shirley Woody, Indiana, was re-elected USA Area President.

The twenty-first Triennial Conference was held at Canterbury University, Christchurch, New Zealand, February, 1 - 8, 1995. Mrs. Lyndsay Hackett-Pain was elected ACWW President, and Mrs. Melba McIntosh, Louisiana, was elected USA Area President.

The twenty-second Triennial Conference was held at the University of Pretoria, South Africa, in April, 1998. Sandra Broadrick-Allen, Illinois, and Shirley Woody, Indiana, were appointed to serve on the United Nations Committee. Judy Weinkauff, Oklahoma, was appointed to serve on the 2001 Triennial Conference Committee.

The twenty-third Triennial Conference was hosted by the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario and held at the Convention Center in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, June 11-18, 2001. Following the Conference, and almost 65 years to the day later, a group of 100 women gathered at the Mather Arch near the Peace Bridge between Fort Erie, Ontario and Buffalo, New York to re-enact a ceremony which had taken place on the bridge after the third ACWW Triennial Conference held in Washington DC. Six new resolutions, two urgency resolutions and three recommendations were passed. A set of resolutions relating to ACWW's 1998 Constitution also passed.

The twenty-fourth Triennial Conference was hosted by the Country Women's Association in Tasmania and held at the Hotel Grand Chancellor in Hobart, Tasmania, Australia, March 23-29, 2004. The launch of the ACWW history: "Working with Women Worldwide: Highlights of 75 Years of ACWW", combined with the varied speakers highlighting women's roles and the passage of Resolutions and Recommendations which have a vital impact on the lives of women worldwide, made the 24th Triennial Conference one of great importance to all.

All proposed Resolutions and Recommendations were accepted by the delegations of nearly 700 representing 40 countries, which exemplify the importance of the issues brought to the floor.

Resolutions & Recommendations adopted for 2027-2029

RESOLUTION 1: Childcare deserts

MOVER: National Volunteer Outreach Network (USA)

SECONDER: Illinois Association for Home and Community Education

The National Volunteer Outreach Network moves that:

“ACWW and its Member Societies call on all governments at both local and national levels to take comprehensive action to eliminate childcare deserts, including for those living in rural, urban and marginalized areas. This includes addressing barriers to affordable and equitable childcare services influenced by a lack of licensed childcare service providers, lack of stabilized care and absence of high quality childcare options, which have a disproportionate impact on women, particularly rural women. We call on governments to provide reliable, affordable, and accessible childcare services, particularly for women living in rural and other underserved areas and communities. Governments are encouraged to consider solutions that include investment in childcare infrastructure, support for flexible and community-based care models, and targeted training programs for childcare service providers at the local and national levels.

RESOLUTION 2: Collection of data on flood-prone river systems

MOVER: from South Pacific Area Conference

It is moved that:

“ACWW and its Members call on all governments to ensure the collection, analysis, and public dissemination of real-time data on rainfall, river flow, and river heights, particularly in floodprone regions. ACWW will work with interested member societies in promoting accessible community-level early warning systems and supporting local education efforts to improve flood preparedness.”

RESOLUTION 3: Iodine deficiency disorders in rural women

MOVER: from South Pacific Area Conference

It is moved that:

“ACWW and its Member Societies call on all governments, the World Health Organisation, UNICEF, and other relevant United Nations bodies, to continue their efforts in relation to reaching optimal iodine nutrition in pregnant and lactating women and young children, particularly those living in rural areas, including: - education and awareness-raising regarding Iodine Deficiency Disorders (IDDs) and the importance of iodine and thyroid function; - appropriate healthcare programming to address IDD and ensure optimal iodine nutrition, particularly for pregnant and lactating women and young children, with due attention given to the increased challenges faced by rural women in this regard; and - testing for iodine levels and thyroid function in standard blood tests, particularly during the first trimester of pregnancy, with appropriate arrangements for those living in rural and other underserved areas with limited access to medical facilities. We urge governments, WHO and the UN to continue to invest in the sustainable elimination of iodine deficiency, and to ensure that cuts to international development funding do not jeopardise the full implementation of these measures for women and girls, particularly those living in rural and other underserved areas.”

RESOLUTION 4: Equitable access to vaccines

MOVER: CWA Queensland

The CWA Queensland moves that:

“ACWW and its Members call on all governments to fully fund and implement their commitments to providing equitable access to all vaccines, to adopt innovative programmes that are responsive to the needs of women in rural and remote communities, and to ensure that cuts to international development funding do not jeopardise the full implementation of these measures for women and girls, particularly those living in rural, remote and other underserved areas.”

RESOLUTION 5: Funding of sexual and reproductive health and rights

MOVER: from South Pacific Area Conference

It is moved that:

“ACWW and its Members call on all governments to implement strategies to fully fund sexual and reproductive health and rights, including providing information, comprehensive sex education and facilities to all.”

RESOLUTION 6: Sustainable funding models to address violence against women and girls

MOVER: from South Pacific Area Conference

It is moved that:

“ACWW and its Members call on all governments to implement the following measures in addressing violence against women and girls: • to prioritise the development and implementation of sustainable funding models for services addressing perpetrator risk factors known to contribute to violence against women and children; • to prioritise funding models that support integrated, trauma-informed, and victimcentred responses across relevant sectors, ensuring affordable and equitable access to legal protections and essential support services for women and children at risk of or affected by violence.”

The United Nations

ACWW has held Special Consultative status with the United Nations since 1947, through the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC). This status is granted to organizations internationally known for specific experience in particular areas of UN activities. It allows ACWW to submit statements to the UN Commission s, engage with procedures such as the Commission on the Status of Women to influence international processes and treaties, and participate in or give evidence at hearings and tribunals. ACWW currently holds ACWW reports on the status of women in rural communities, based on input from its membership in 84 countries around the world. Representation takes place in New York, Geneva, Rome, and Bangkok as appropriate and necessary, and ACWW works with UN agencies to promote the inclusion of rural women, their societies, and their needs.

At various points, ACWW has received funding or expert support for its development projects and advocacy work. ACWW also holds consultative or partnership status with the FAO and UNESCO; in 2020-2022 ACWW was elected to the NGO-UNESCO Liaison Committee, and in August 2022 received approval for $14,000 for a new project for survivors of domestic violence in rural Mongolia under the UNESCO Participation Program. Support education opportunities for Rural Women

Support the sharing of knowledge between Rural Women

Support partnership and local activities of Rural Women

Raise awareness of the needs and challenges in rural communities amongst non-rural women and others.

HOW WE WORK

The greatest resource ACWW has is its Member Societies around the world. Through the Triennial World Conference they elect the Board of Trustees. Every three years Member Societies have the opportunity to bring forward policy resolutions to be voted on by the membership. If adopted, all Societies have a mandate to work to achieve these policy resolutions in their own countries.

The Board of Trustees adopts a Strategic Plan in each Triennium, and works to achieve its goals, in line with the wider Aims and Charitable Objectives of ACWW. Board Members and Central Office work to ensure representation at the United Nations, and to amplify the voices of members at the international level. Area Presidents work to unite the voices of members in their regions, and to raise local, national, and regional issues to the attention of the wider organization.

ACWW Central Office creates resources to support the Board of Trustees and Member Societies, collects and maintains information, showcases the best practice of Members, and coordinates international exchange of ideas, best practice, and processes.

ACWW maintains partnerships with other organizations, and the Board oversees the funding of women-led development projects. These projects are delivered by local partners to ensure that local needs are met, local challenges are understood, and local voices are heard.

PROJECTS ADOPTED BY CWC

1. October 2014 the member societies of CWC voted to adopt an ACWW Project #0973 Greenhouse Development in Mongolia. The project helped to improve the lives of 30 low-income female-headed households in the town of Jargalant Sum. Two large greenhouses were built, thus extending the growing season of their food. The greenhouses, tools and training enabled families to increase their productivity and income, thus improving their standard of living. Finally, the entire village of Jargalant Sum will reap the benefits of this agricultural project through improved nutrition and increased access to foods. A Certificate of Completion was received from ACWW in 2016.

2. 2016, with extra monies left over from the first project, the societies voted to support a second ACWW project: #1007 India Promotion of Indigenous Rice and Vegetables Cultivation among Marginal Women Farmers and Prevent their Migration to Towns. The aim of this project was to promote indigenous rice and vegetable crops through sustainable farm methods among marginalised women in Pudukottai district, Tamil Nadu. Women farmers in six villages were given orientation on the goals of the project. They were encouraged to select 40 beneficiaries from their own number. The beneficiaries were given two days' awareness training, two days' training in soil and water conservation methods and five days' intensive training in sustainable agriculture methods and techniques. The women beneficiaries collected seeds and will run a seed bank in order to share high quality seeds. A Certificate of Completion was received in 2017.

3. 2017 ACWW Project #1023 India. Enhancement of nutritional health security through home gardens for Dalit women

250 Dalit women and their families (around 2,150 people in total) who are in 25 deprived rural villages in Thanjavur district, Tamil Nadu were beneficiaries of this project. The beneficiaries were trained in nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion, food safety, home gardening and sustainable cooking methods over two days, in groups of 50. Seed kits and seedlings of species suitable for home gardening were distributed to the beneficiaries, who were encouraged to grow green vegetables and fruits for their families.

]The beneficiaries will have an improved diet and be less dependent on local markets for their food than before. They are able to build their household's capacity to prepare inexpensive, nutritious food and, as the main caretakers of their home gardens, will be empowered as a result of this project. Certificate of Completion was received May 27, 2019 from ACWW.

4. 2017 Zero Hunger Campaign adopted. Collection of dimes in a small water bottle was initiated and the funds are split 50/50 between the US Feeding America program and ACWW Zero Hunger Challenge. This program was continued through 2020.
